Nyctophilia. It means "love of darkness or night." This is the last thing we as Christians want to do when God places us in the season that John of the Cross has dubbed, "the dark night of the soul." In this book, author and minister Jared Hill uses his poetry to describe his journey through this season, and how he learned to love this time of darkness. His hope is that in your own way, these poems will help you come to embrace this season of your life with joy.

A Shaede Assassin short story—takes place after Shadows at Midnight Darian is once again adrift. Her safe haven has been destroyed by an unknown foe and her only allies have left Seattle to fight the impending coup of Xander's kingdom. Besides having a new handler - assigned to her by the overbearing Shaede King, Darian is plagued by debilitating headaches and haunted by gaps in her memory that she can't seem to fill. She's a survivor, though. And she'll carry on. Work is work, but when the wily assassin has a scrape with death herself, she discovers that the hunter has become the hunted. Someone wants her dead and is willing to pay a fortune to see it done. She's racing the clock to save her own skin and quickly realizes that the gaps in her memory are the least of her problems... Previously published in the Geeky Giving anthology.

Explains how to use times of challenge, disappointment, illness, and dissatisfaction as an opportunity to explore the soul's deepest needs in order to provide healing and a new understanding of the meaning of life.

John Piper examines depression from a spiritual perspective, guiding and encouraging those for whom joy seems to stay out of reach.

Light in the Midst of Darkness is an inspiring devotional that will deepen and enhance your spiritual life. Mike takes scenarios from combat and turns them into practical devotions that anyone can relate to. This book will encourage and enrich your life with God. The book includes a question page every seven days, facilitating intentional learning and growth through reader participation, as well as group study and discussion. This unique book is perfect for individual study, family devotions, mens and womens groups, even Church and School classes. The thing I like about these devotions is that they provide practical, reader-friendly lessons. They get into your heart. A book of great inspiration, courage, and hope, every word rings with reflection, truth, kindness, and the beauty of the human spirit. I urge you to check out this book. - Alvin Jay Chaplin Sr., Sergeant Major, US Army

The church's relationship with depression has been fraught, and we still have a long way to go. Drawing on her own experience with depression, Diana Gruver looks back into church history and finds depression in the lives of some of our most beloved saints, telling their stories in fresh ways and offering practical wisdom both for those in the darkness and those who care for them.

In this long awaited follow-up to the best-selling An Altar in the World, Barbara Brown Taylor explores 'the treasures of darkness' that the Bible speaks about. What can we learn about the ways of God when we cannot see the way ahead, are lost, alone, frightened, not in control or when the world around us seems to have descended into darkness?

Can light and darkness exist together? Darrian is sure the answer is no. What he isn't sure of is why. The simple answer is that they are both absolutes, and one must ultimately overtake and destroy the other. But according to his friend Spence, there's more to it than that, something deeper and more complicated. Spence has spent years trying to pull Darrian out of the darkness and into the Light, while forces that can be heard, but not seen, wrestle to keep him where he is. Darrian struggles with the conflict, but finds it easier to remain in the shadows. There, shielded from society, he wrestles with the question: Why is there safety and comfort in the darkness, but anxiety and confusion in the light? On the surface, it seems easier to just let go, to not fight it, but somewhere inside, in a place he tries unsuccessfully to explore, there is a deep-seated longing to at least understand the light. The unrest creates a battle within as he seeks to reconcile what his eyes can see with what his heart can feel. Unfortunately, the answer Darrian is searching for lies in a place beyond his physical vision. There is a darkness that blinds him to the real battle, the one he will eventually have to fight. The one that will truly open his eyes. The one that will help him to finally see that darkness and light have little to do with sight and everything to do with insight. "The lamp of the body is the eye. Therefore when your eye is good, your whole body also is full of light. But when your eye is bad, your body also
