to the wind, Jo allows herself one hot night with a stranger. But Zane doesn't want to remain a stranger. He pursues Jo until she can't say no, but neither can she say yes. She's had her fill of men who take risks for a living, and Zane is a mixed martial arts fighter at the top of his sport. Can Jo love not only the man but the fighter as well?

After vacationing businessman Marcus Granger saves Tabitha from drowning, the two begin an affair that follows them home from the beach, where they both must decide if this is a holiday fling or the real thing. Excerpt: Tabitha's smile grew wide. She held out her hand. "Really, I can't thank you enough for your help." He held her hand in a firm grasp a shade longer than necessary, but Tabitha didn't mind. She enjoyed looking at him. Though he had probably shaved that morning, an attractive shadow highlighted his chin and strong jawline. "I'm glad I was in the right place." Tabitha released his hand. "So, where's your sister?" "My sister? How did you know?" Tabitha bit her lip. "I'm sorry to say that I eavesdropped a bit. I was sitting near you at dinner last evening." "Eavesdropping? That seems extremely naughty." Tabitha was caught off guard by the tone of his voice. He was teasing, and yet, there was a thread of authority running through his words. Tabitha tried to suppress a shiver. "Well, sometimes I just can't help myself." Marcus appeared disarmed by her honesty. "Are you traveling with anyone?" Tabitha gave him a playful look. "Why do you ask?" Marcus smiled.

"Because I'm interested in knowing the answer, of course." "Well, if you're thinking about ditching my body at sea, I've got six family members waiting for me in my hotel room upstairs. If you're thinking about asking me to dinner, there is no reason why you shouldn't." Tabitha amazed herself. Where is this coming from? This man brought something out in her. She'd bet those broad shoulders and sexy smile had enticed many a woman. He laughed. "You have nothing to worry about. I never use force, unless of course, it is desired." "Oh?" The truth burst into her mind. It suddenly became clear that he was fishing around a bit. There had been several hints here and there, but it seemed like he might be looking for a certain sort of woman. No, he couldn't be. I'm imagining things. "It's true. I would be pleased if you joined me for dinner this evening." Tabitha did a mental fist pump in her mind. Woohoo! Dinner with Gorgeous Guy. "What did you have in mind?" "Would you be averse to allowing me to surprise you?" Tabitha hesitated then plunged ahead. "Not at all. It's clear you have excellent taste." Marcus raised an eyebrow. "What makes you say that?" "Well, we both dined at the same restaurant last night, and I thought it was terrific." "Ah, well, my meal was less than pleasant unfortunately." His tone indicated the subject was off-limits. "Perhaps it was the company and not the food?" Marcus laughed. "You are undoubtedly right and surprisingly honest." "My mother would say that my tongue is quicker than my brain." The corners of Marcus's mouth lifted.

Look out for Mary Kubica's new twisty psychological thriller, The Other Mrs. perfect for fans of "You". Over a million copies sold. "A twisty, roller coaster ride of a debut. Fans of Gone Girl will embrace this equally evocative tale." —Lisa Gardner, #1 New York Times bestselling author "I've been following her for the past few days. I know where she buys her groceries, where she has her dry cleaning done, where she works. I don't know the color of her eyes or what they look like when she's scared. But I will." One night, Mia Dennett enters a bar to meet her on-again, off-again boyfriend. But when he doesn't show, she unwisely leaves with an enigmatic stranger. At first Colin Thatcher seems like a safe one-night stand. But following Colin home will turn out to be the worst mistake of Mia's life. When Colin decides to hide Mia in a secluded cabin in rural Minnesota instead of delivering her to his employers, Mia's mother, Eve, and detective Gabe Hoffman will stop at nothing to find them. But no one could have predicted the emotional entanglements that eventually cause this family's world to shatter. An addictively suspenseful and tautly written thriller, The Good Girl is a propulsive debut that reveals how even in the perfect family, nothing is as it seems. A little baby girl is born into a world of confusion, neglect and hunger. Saved from her drug addict mother by a kind lesbian couple, Maria Amari begins to show considerable music talent beyond her years. But her musical friendship with invisible friend 'Mo, Mo' begins to take on a creepy edge. Is Mo, Mo simply an imaginary outlet for a precocious and prodigal child, or something more sinister - the ghost of Mozart himself? Maria's musical career blossoms, but not before tragedy, loss, love, family ties and the are (mostly) welcome. With a new gourmet dinner delivery business--and a touch of magic in her recipes--Mia's hopes are high. Even when her ex's little sister, Christina, arrives looking for a place to stay, Mia takes it in stride. But her first catering job takes a distasteful turn when her client's body is found, stabbed and stuffed under the head table. Mia's shocked to learn that she's a suspect--and even more so when she realizes she's next on a killer's list. With Christina, along with Mia's meddling grandma, in the mix, she'll have to find out which of the town's eccentric residents has an appetite for murder...before this fresh start comes to a sticky end...
