Punch and Judy Scripts. Punch and Judy scripts can be tailored to be more [suitable] for very young children if preferred. This is a personal decision but I would like to reassure any worriers out there that most children have already seen worse violence on television and from my own experience performing Punch and Judy to a wide variety of ages, very rarely does a child react badly to any Punch and Judy performance.

Punch And Judy Play Script

The earliest script of a Punch and Judy show dates from 1827 when the journalist John Payne Collier recorded the script of a performance by Piccini, the 82-year old Italian Punchman who had worked in London since he arrived in 1779.

V&A "That's The Way To Do It!" A History Of Punch & Judy

In 1828, the critic John Payne Collier published a Punch and Judy script under the title The Tragical Comedy or Comical Tragedy of Punch and Judy. The script was illustrated by the well-known caricaturist George Cruikshank. Collier said his script was based on the version performed by the "professor" Giovanni Piccini in the early 19th century, and Piccini himself had begun performing in the streets of London in the late 18th century.

Punch and Judy Wikipedia

Punch and Judy is a traditional, popular puppet show featuring the characters of Mr. Punch and his wife, Judy. The performance consists of a sequence of short scenes, each depicting an interaction between two characters, most typically the anarchic Punch and one other character. One of the additional characters is a crocodile.

Punch & Judy Punch and Judy

Much emphasis is often placed on the first printed script of Punch and Judy (1827). Based on a show by travelling performer Giovanni Piccini, it was illustrated by George Cruikshank and written by John Payne Collier. While this is the only surviving script of a performance, its accuracy is questioned.
