Non possiamo dire che I Colori dell’Avanguardia sia una mostra dedicata all’avanguardia, neanche ad un’avanguardia così complessa e contraddittoria come quella romena. Se la si guarda con spirito purista, questa mostra è quasi un tradimento. Non solo si apre con opere moderniste create attorno al 1910, molto prima dell’aurora dadaista europea nata nei lunatici incontri del Cabaret Voltaire, ma si chiude con montaggi pseudoavanguardisti, opere del realismo socialista posteriori al 1950, nate quindi molto dopo la fine ufficiale dell’avanguardia storica propriamente detta. Inoltre, gran parte della mostra è dedicata ad un miscuglio di modernismi moderati, dal simbolismo ad un postimpressionismo classico, tradizionale, influenzato dalle opere di Cézanne, dal costruttivismo al surrealismo o ad un espressionismo che scivola armoniosamente verso la Neue Sachlichkeit, il realismo corporativo dall’obiettività carica d’ideologia. A dispetto delle posizioni politiche teoricamente antitetiche di questi orientamenti, sorprendono alcuni temi iconografici ricorrenti che collegano artisti, opere ed eventi apparentemente situati ai poli opposti di un unico contesto artistico locale. Ma è proprio questa la scommessa di questa mostra. Colours of the Avant-garde is decidedly not an exhibition thoroughly and honestly dedicated to the avant-garde, not even to the complex and contradictory, Romanian one. Seen from the purist, advanced avant-garde outpost, the exhibition is almost disloyal. It not only starts with modernist works of the 1910s, long before the Dadaist European debut through the agency of the Lunatic proceedings at Cabaret Voltaire, but it also ends with pseudo-avant-garde, realist-socialist collages produced in 1950s, long after the official expiration of the properly historical avant-garde. Moreover, the very bulk of the exhibition is assigned to a mixture of various kinds of mellow modernisms, ranging from Symbolism to a Cézanne-touched classical, traditional post-impressionism or from Constructivist to Surrealist and even somehow retarded, Expressionist works. Despite the fact that most of their ideological standpoints were theoretically adverse, one is struck by the unexpected recurrence of some prominent iconographical data that link together artists, works and events apparently disconnected, placed at the opposing ends of the same art scene. But this is precisely the point of the exhibition.

La geometria pitagorica rivela una precisa corrispondenza tra suono, angolo e colore e si pone come base per la ricerca delle correlazioni tra l’essere umano, la natura e il suono. Uno studio integrato del suono attraverso il suo valore simbolico-energetico è condotto in un ambito che coinvolge le quattro forme della Conoscenza: Arte, Scienza, Filosofia e Religione. Il tempo, l’essenza, l’energia e il ritmo primordiale sono presentati con semplicità. Inedita la presentazione di elementi costruttivi della camera pitagorica e del cubo platonico, realizzati e utilizzati per lavori di armonizzazione. Le sapienti parole di Vinardi conducono il lettore verso ciò che non si può imparare ma si può solo "apprendere" tramite l’attivazione di particolari centri energetici. Libro ampiamente illustrato con immagini a colori.

Renaissance Colour Symbolism brings together texts and translations of the four earliest printed books on the meaning of colours: Le Blason de toutes armes et ?scutz (1495) by Jean Courtois, the Sicily Herald, Le Blason des couleurs en armes, livr?es et devises (1527) by Gilles Corrozet, Libellus de coloribus (1528) by Antonio Telesio (Thylesius), and Del significato de? colori (1535) by Fulvio Pellegrino Morato. Parts of three other early books are included, from The Accedens of Armory (1562) by Gerard Legh, Trattato dell’arte della pittura, scoltura, et architettura (1584) by Giovanni Paolo Lomazzo, and A Tracte Containing the Artes of Curious Paintinge, Carvinge and Buildinge (1598) by Richard Haydocke.
